Middleton Outreach Ministry has changed its name to reflect its expanded mission.

The new name, WayForward Resources, clarifies that the organization's food pantry is now open to everyone in Dane County and that, over time, the service area for housing stability programs has expanded beyond Middleton to include Cross Plains and west Madison, according to a news release announcing the rebranding.

WayForward Resources says it serves more than 5,000 people a year, distributing the equivalent of more than 100,000 meals per month. Additionally, about 500 households each year receive housing stability funds and 98% of participants maintain housing and avoid eviction for a year or longer.
